“ Barb was the clerk for the Contra Costa Co Public Health Lab when I started working there in 1972. She had a wonderful spirit about her and never said anything bad about anyone. It was obvious that her family was very important to her so it was no surprise that she quit her job to focus on expanding her family and care for her children. When our son was born, she offered to take care of our son until he was old enough to start preschool and so my wife could go back to work part-time. She called him "Big D" and he remembers her to this day. We have fond memories of her and will keep her in our hearts. Bev and Glenn Kaneko
