

Clyde Seegmiller

April 24, 1948 - December 2, 2025

Clyde Seegmiller was born on April 24, 1948 in Pasay City, Philippines to parents, Flotilda Arelis Seegmiller and Herbert Galliego Seegmiller. Clyde resided in Pasay City with his mother and two brothers and later moved to Novaliches, Quezon City, PI to finish his middle school education before his family reunited with his father and sister, Jennie in Okinawa, Japan. His father was a civil-service mechanic at the Naha military airbase in Japan. After graduating from Kubaski High School in 1968, Clyde and his brother, Darwin became merchant marines, delivering military equipment to Vietnam. Shortly after, Clyde moved to San Francisco to begin a life with his high school sweetheart, Janet Taroc, and first child, Tina, in 1969. Clyde's first marriage was short-lived, but he received a second chance at love.

Clyde remarried in 1973 to Jossie Hangad and later had one daughter, Sarah, and two sons, Stanley, and Strever. During the time, Clyde worked several jobs to support his growing family. He worked as a baggage handler at SFO International Airport, as a fabric cutter at Lorrie Deb, and took on various construction jobs to support his growing family.

In 1986, Clyde remarried again to Charito DeGuzman, his final love of his life. They had three children, Chandler, Charlene, and Clyde Jr (CJ). Combined, Clyde and Charito had seven grandchildren: Josh, Isaiah, Amaya, Kaelyn, Kylee, Sienna and Sage. Clyde continued his career in construction, while Charito dedicated her life caring for her family.

Clyde succumbed to his heart disease on Dec 2, 2025, after bidding farewell to his dedicated wife of 39 years, Charito, who suffered a stroke and passed away five days earlier, on Thanksgiving morning, 11/27/2025. Clyde and Charito will be laid to rest together on Dec 22, 2025, at All Souls Cemetery in Vallejo, CA, so they can continue their love story in heaven.
