“ Bob was a wonderful and generous man. He rode with me often on patrol. He would always ask questions about police work to better himself. One evening we came across an older man and woman who were living in their van (suspicious veh call). After realizing that all was ok, bob reached into his pocket and gave them forty dollars. Sign of his concern and generosity. He was also my ex father-in-law. He always treated me with respect and concern even after divorce. I lost contact with him ever since he moved across the bay, but I will never forget him.
